SUBJECT: Shoulder Sleeve Insignia for the United States Army Intelligence Command

TO: Commanding General
United States Army Intelligence Command
Fort Holabird, Maryland 21219

1. The shoulder sleeve insignia originally approved for the United States Army Intelligence Corps Command, 2 February 1965, is authorized this date for the United States Army Intelligence Command.

2. The description and symbolism are as follows:

DESCRIPTION

On a blue shield  $3 \frac{1}{16}$  inches in height and  $2 \frac{1}{4}$  inches in width, a  $\frac{1}{8}$  inch silver gray border within which is a yellow Sphinx above a demi-sun emitting seven rays sidewise and downward, all yellow.

SYMBOLISM

The Sphinx symbolizes silence and wisdom. The sun, standing for light and guidance, refers to the leadership function of the Command. The rays are seven in number for the seven Intelligence Corps groups under the Command's direction. Yellow or gold signifies successful accomplishment; oriental blue and silver gray are the Army Intelligence and Security Branch colors.

3. This authorization is in accordance with:

- a. Paragraph 137a(1)(c), Changes 4, AR 670-5, dated 12 Oct 1965.
- b. General Orders No. 23, Department of the Army, dated 1 Jul 1965.

SUBJECT: Distinctive Insignia for the U. S. Army Intelligence Command

Commanding General
U. S. Army Intelligence Command
Fort Holabird, Maryland 21219

1. A distinctive insignia for the U. S. Army Intelligence Command is authorized. It is described as follows:

DESCRIPTION

A device of gold color metal and enamel 1 3/16 inches in height overall consisting of a white scroll opened horizontally, the roller handles at each side gold and on the open portion in center seven blue stars arranged in a V-shape of five with one at either side of the point; above and below the scroll a portion of a globe segmented of four, the two outer segments in gold with black gridlines and the two central segments black with gold gridlines, both globe sections contained by concentric blue scrolls, the one above inscribed with the word "Vigilance" and the one below with the words "And Truth" all in gold capitals.

SYMBOLISM

The opened white scroll symbolizes truth and accuracy; it further represents the collection of intelligence and the Command's files and repository. The globe sections indicate the world-wide responsibilities of the organization, and with their central sections in black simulating eyes, allude to the qualities of vigilance and alertness. The seven Military Intelligence Groups under the leadership of the Command are represented by the seven oriental blue stars on the scroll.
